Mask Fit Testing

Recommendation or Requirement?

Mask fit testing is a legal requirement that often gets overlooked, Fit testing can be the difference between life and death. Don't expose your business or employees to risk. Let Integrated Safety Group assist with all your respiratory compliance obligations.

It is YOUR requirement to have ANNUAL Fit Testing done by a competent provider – LET US HELP

Integrated Safety Group offer complete respiratory protective programs & fit testing services that are conducted at our office, and/or onsite at your workplace. Testing is conducted in accordance with Australian Standards AS/NZ 1715:2009 Selection, Use and Maintenance of Respiratory Protective Equipment and is suitable for all half face and full face respirator brands.

There are TWO types of respirator fit testing Qualitative and Quantitative... WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE?

Qualitative Fit Testing

Qualitative fit testing is a subjective test. Traditionally used for workers that are required to wear either a disposable masks or respirators that just cover their nose and mouth (half-mask respirators).

Why can this be dangerous to you and your staff?

Qualitative testing relies on the wearer's sense of taste or smell. It is a method that relies on a subjective response.

This is NOT a preferred method of test

Quantitative Fit Testing

Quantitative fit testing involves our trained staff operating a specialised Porta count machine.

This device allows ISG to measure leaks around the face seal of the respirator

The resulting fit factor provides a precise indication for you and your staff to determine if your respirator provides adequate protection IAW documented exposure standards.

Quantitative Fit Testing is the ONLY standard you should accept for your employees when protection from exposure to hazardous materials in the workplace is necessary.
