

OHS & ENVIRONMENT POLICY

Integrated Safety Group (ISG) aim to be the leading service providers of Safety and Emergency Response technical Services in North Queensland; ISG is committed to promoting and maintaining environmental practices for the benefit of our customers, future employees and the community in which we operate.

We acknowledge our responsibility to provide a safe and healthy work environment, and to prevent the company's operations from placing any staff, the local community and environment at risk of negative impacts.

As ISG develops systems and procedures into the future, as confirmation of our commitment to improve & continually strive towards our safety and environmental performance goals, we will conduct and grow our business in a manner conscientious of our resources.

To facilitate this, ISG will comply with all applicable national, state and other legal requirements and current standards.

ISG will target areas for improvement during our daily processes and commit all staff & associations of ISG to sound OHS&E practices.

We will conserve natural resources such as fuel, water and power as much as practical.

We will commit to train and develop future employees to create awareness about good environmental and safety practices.

We will ensure the safety of employees, contractors and customers by the provision of regular information, instruction, training and supervision.

We will communicate our OHS&E policy to future staff, as well as make it available to the public and any interested parties through on-line resources.

We will carry out a regular review of the OHS&E policy and performance to ensure that all policies and procedures are relevant as the company grows, and adequate to meet changing OHS&E commitments into the future.

We will provide and maintain the workplace in a safe condition, and provide written procedures and instructions to guide in the implementation and maintenance of safe and environmentally responsible systems of work and practices.
